1. Introduction

Beach Cities Health District (BCHD) is taking a holistic approach to creating a Healthy Living Campus that serves the entire lifespan and meets the ever-changing health needs of the community.

We have explored options to renovate and enhance our 11-acre campus by hosting three study circles (small break-out groups): intergenerational programs, creating community gathering spaces and creating a center of excellence. These group sessions have been informal and comprised of diverse stakeholders from the three Beach Cities. Participants were selected by BCHD staff to represent a wide variety of local interests and viewpoints, and included city officials/staff, local leaders and residents, members of civic organizations, older adult services, school districts, BCHD committees, Healthy Living Campus community working group members and local students.

This report summarizes participation and feedback received at our recent study circle on creating a “center of excellence.”

1.1 Purpose of Study Circles

Study circles provide a forum for identifying opportunities by engaging participants who provide different perspectives and experiences that enhance the interests and needs of a community group, service, agency or organization. BCHD hosted community study circles designed to inject more resident input into the planning process for the proposed Healthy Living Campus. Feedback received is being applied to the planning and design of the overall project.

2. Study Circle on Creating a Center of Excellence – September 5, 2018

2.1 Overview

BCHD hosted a Sept. 5 study circle in the Redondo Beach Main Library (303 N. Pacific Coast Hwy) focused on creating a center of excellence. The attendee list, made up of community members and diverse stakeholders from Hermosa, Manhattan and Redondo Beach, was developed by staff and reviewed by leadership.

Fifty (50) invitees attended this study circle. Each received an invitation packet (Appendix C) prior to the event that included the invitation, resource materials on wellness communities and the 2017/18 BCHD Annual Report. The meeting room featured a presentation screen at the front of the room as well as five tables with 10 chairs to accommodate the break-out group discussions. The format provided opportunities for participants to actively engage in meaningful discussion and share valuable information and insights with their group members and facilitator regarding the concept of developing a center of excellence. Throughout the session, participant comments were written on easel pads. Comment cards for written comments were also provided.

The meeting began with a welcome message to attendees from Tom Bakaly, BCHD CEO, and was followed by short presentations from:

- Paul Murdoch, an award-winning designer with 30 years of experience designing innovative, environmentally sustainable campuses and institutions across the U.S. He discussed best practices related to centers of excellence, showcased building features and structures devoted to health and wellness, and explored ways BCHD can leverage its campus, services, programs, partnerships and staff to solidify itself as a center of excellence for community health.
- Kerianne Lawson, BCHD director of lifespan services, outlined the board-approved project pillars for the Healthy Living Campus: Health, Livability and Community. She also shared BCHD's definition of a center of excellence as outlined in the guiding principles for the project, which states: "Build a center of excellence focused on wellness, prevention and research."

Mrs. Lawson returned to the podium following Dr. Wesley's comments (see below) and highlighted the many successes of BCHD's Blue Zones Project, including the visit from the U.S. Surgeon General to learn best practices in 2016; Beach Cities earning the third highest well-being score in the nation in 2017; and statistically significant improvements across key community health indicators since the project launch in 2010 (smoking, overweight/obese, exercise, nutrition habits, etc.).

- Dr. Nicole Wesley, executive director of student services for Redondo Beach Unified School District (RBUSD), outlined some of the characteristics that make BCHD a center of excellence, notably the partnership with RBUSD to successfully lower childhood obesity by 68 percent since launching the LiveWell Kids program in 2007. She went on to describe why BCHD is a unique and valuable community resource for the school district – one that outside districts wish they had in their communities.
- Dean Sherzai, M.D., provided an update on the potentially ground-breaking dementia research – Healthy Minds Study – being conducted in partnership with BCHD and how it bolsters the District's status as a center of excellence. He described the Beach Cities as the ideal location for this prevention-focused research because of the innovative community health programs and services BCHD has been successfully implementing at the local level – Blue Zones Project, Care Management, LiveWell Kids – for 20 years.

Following the presentations, attendees were asked to brainstorm ideas around three key questions.

1. When you think about a center of excellence, in any industry, what organizational characteristics come to mind?
2. In what ways is BCHD currently a center of excellence for community health?
3. How can BCHD enhance its model to solidify itself as a center of excellence for community health?

BCHD staff members facilitated the group session and encouraged participants at each table to candidly share their thoughts on each of the three discussion questions. Notetakers documented the input and each group publicly reported out two or three key ideas for each question.

Mr. Bakaly concluded the study circle by explaining that all of the input gathered would be reported to the BCHD Board of Directors in a full summary report. He described how the feedback would help guide the conceptual designs that BCHD plans to develop and publicly present to the board and community for consideration in early 2019.

The feedback received from the group exercise is summarized in Section 2.3, Summary of feedback.

APPENDIX C: INVITATION PACKET EBLAST

Dear Community Member,

We hope you can attend our upcoming study circle – Sept. 5th from 6-7:30 p.m. at the Redondo Beach Main Library – on creating a Center of Excellence for Community Health. Your input and feedback will be used to help us create a Healthy Living Campus that best serves the evolving health needs of the Beach Cities.

This final study circle will focus on actionable ways BCHD can maximize its campus redesign, programs and resources to further solidify itself as a Center of Excellence for community health that focuses on innovative prevention, wellness and research. All input gathered will be reported to the BCHD Board of Directors for consideration and posted publicly at bchd.org/healthylivingcampus.

If you haven't done so already, please RSVP here.

Participant Guide

Beach Cities Health District (BCHD) continues to take a broad look at the Healthy Living Campus revitalization project. Your participation in this study circle (ways we can leverage the campus redesign, programs and resources to further establish BCHD as a center of excellence) is an opportunity to continue the community discussion that began with recent sessions regarding community gathering spaces and intergenerational living.

Instructions

Please use this document to guide the discussion during the small break-out groups on creating a center of excellence.

Dovetailing on the pre-read materials provided and the presentation, please share with your group your insights and/or personal experiences pertaining to the questions on creating a center of excellence listed on the Group Discussion Exercise section of this guide. Comments will be captured on flip charts, however participants may submit additional thoughts on comment cards.

Participants selected to be the group representative should assist the facilitator in capturing comments on a flip chart during the discussion and report out their group’s comments to the rest of the study circle participants at the end of the session.

Review, as a group, the main points discussed and agree on the synopsis of the discussion. The representative should choose 2-3 main points from each topic to share with all study circle attendees during the reporting portion of this session.

Study Circle Values

You don’t have to be an expert, but do engage at your level of comfort using the pre-reading resource materials provided to guide the discussion.

Self-monitor the amount of time you’re speaking to ensure everyone has the opportunity to provide feedback.

Listening is as important as speaking.

Discussion should be positive and constructive.

Seek clarification if you are unclear of a term or concept.

Don't spend too much time problem-solving. Create a list of potential solutions or actions and move on to cover as many topics as possible.

No value judgements on other participants' comments.

A response is not mandatory for each question.

Group Discussion Exercise

Please refer to the following topics focusing on creating a Center of Excellence for this exercise.

Topic 1

When you think about a Center of Excellence, in any industry, what organizational characteristics come to mind?

Topic 2

In what ways is Beach Cities Health District currently a Center of Excellence for Community Health?

Topic 3

How can BCHD enhance its model to solidify itself as a Center of Excellence for Community Health?

Question 3: How can BCHD enhance its model to solidify itself as a Center of Excellence for Community Health?

Group 1:

- Campus has a focus
- Focus on Mental Health

- Research/training relationship with hospital and doctors
- Inclusive – people with disabilities
- Think whole person
- Technology friendly
- Mental health
- Campus has a focus

Group 2:

- Ability to adapt to health changes
 - Change is a constant
 - Health in all areas
- Idea of integrating beliefs/values into everything BCHD touches
- Partnerships – make sure to instill beliefs/values of BCHD
 - Consistent in all program/relationships
 - Example: Sunrise and Silverado not in line with what BCHD does
- Passive involvement more active
 - Organization approach to community
- Interest in things that meet BCHD standards
- One central message (have a lot of programs going a lot of different ways)
 - Marketing – making what we do digestible

Group 3:

- Welcoming and warm atmosphere
- Inclusive
- Accessible
- Openness to diverse ideas
- Open dialogue/sense of community
- Lived evidence/experience
- Empowering agents of change
- Encouraging curiosity
- Discovering a shared truth
- Valuing others
- Inspiring leadership/creating leaders
- Creating ownership

Group 4:

- Redefine word “Patient” making every Beach Cities resident a “patient” for wellness, education and lifestyle
“Be Well Resident”
- Convince healthy people to participate
- Be as excellent as programming and mission
 - Space draws people in
- Increase public involvement
- Create/enhance marketing program
- People and programs informing the physical structure (not the other way around)
 - Relationship between building and programs
- Gain national recognition, then franchise the model
- Meeting future needs
- Balance onsite and offsite initiatives

Group 5:

- Expand exercise programs and space
- Stimulus for research
